John Patten (Pat) Guthrie, AIA, retired, was principal of John Pat Guthrie Architects, Inc. He was a licensed architect in 13 states and is the author of McGraw-Hill's Cross Check: Integrating Building Systems and Working Drawings and The Architect's Portable Handbook.

I originally bought this because my teacher had the first one and our class used it like crazy. It's a great book and has a lot of information that most people wouldn't necessarily think about and a lot of information that you just can't find anywhere else. I wish it was geared a little more to the NKBA side of things as well as having a little larger font. When you've been staring at the screen all day that tiny font is hard to see. :) Every Interior Designer should have one.

As a professional commercial interior designer I have found this book to be excellent. There is a wealth of information and it is easy to locate in the book. The code section is streamlined and contains the 2009 IBC sections. The cost estimating section makes it easy to get preliminary cost for the client so they have an understanding of costs and can make decisions on what is affordable. Highly recommended must have for all commercial interior designers.

Which I had found this before my Senior year of design school!! Has exactly the info you're looking for, often we find ourselves searching through multiple books for one specific thing, this book collects all the important info from multiple authors and sums it up perfectly, as well as which book it referenced so you can find the a more expanded explanation if needed.

This is a handy reference book. It's a great go to for quickly needed answers. I would recommend it to others who are looking for a snapshot or synopsis of the bigger picture.

Invaluable handbook for designers. Must have!

Very handy book!

Very helpful info at your fingertips.

very useful
